

It has become popular for some in the ministry to obtain "advanced" training from insubstantial schools which require meeting only simple objectives and then to claim the same degrees which are awarded in schools of recognized substance. This book explains why this does not honor Christ or edify his church. The book illustrates what constitutes quality in theological education, what is genuine accreditation, and it provides examples of schools claiming to provide advanced theological training but instead which award degrees without rigor.

Bill Grover taught secondary handicapped learners in California and Oregon from 1969 through 2005 and taught Bible and theology online with the South African Theological Seminary from 2006 through 2018. He holds masters degrees from Point Loma University and Western Seminary and Doctoral Degrees from The University of Zululand and Corban University. He is author of:

- 1) Comprehending Christ
- 2) Spirit and Water Baptism
- 3) Nine Reasons to Reject Mormonism
- 4) Seven Questions on the Two Natures in Christ and several other books. Bill is 80 years old and lives with his son in Salem, Oregon.
